

Contents

Section 1—Alaska: Past, Present, and Future	3
Wilderness Insights From Alaska: Past, Present, and Future	5
Deborah L. Williams
A History of Alaska Wilderness	10
Frank Norris
The Virtues of Localism and Arctic Wilderness Politics	14
James N. Gladden
A GIS-Based Method to Evaluate Undeveloped BLM Lands in Alaska	19
Jason Geck
Subsistence, Tourism, and Research: Layers of Meaning in Lake Clark National Park and Preserve	29
Karen Gaul
Economics of Wild Salmon Ecosystems: Bristol Bay, Alaska	35
John W. Duffield, Christopher J. Neher, David A. Patterson, and Oliver S. Goldsmith
Traditional Ecological Knowledge: Applying Principles of Sustainability to Wilderness Resource Management	45
Nancy C. Ratner and Davin L. Holen
Section 2—Connections Between Wilderness and Communities	51
People and Watersheds: The Case of the Totem Fish of the North Pacific	53
Gus diZerega
Wild Cemeteries?	59
Les Wadzinski
Community Involvement in Planning and Management for Outdoor Recreation in New Zealand Protected Areas	65
Steve Sutton and Gordon Cessford
Two Countries, One Forest: Working Beyond Political Boundaries in the Northern Appalachian/Acadian Forest	74
James Sullivan
Community Conservation Adjacent to Ruaha National Park, Tanzania	75
Sue Stolberger
The Heritage Park Model: A Partnership Approach to Park Expansion in Poor Rural Areas	78
Charles Ndabeni, Maretha Shroyer, Willie Boonzaaier, Gabriel Mokgoko, and Sam Mochine
Making Connections Beyond the Choir	87
David Johns
Creating Institutions of Care: The Case for Democratic Forest Trusts	90
Gus diZerega
Friends of the Inyo: Eastern Sierra Wilderness Stewardship Project	96
Paul McFarland and Jamie Anderson
Socio-Ecosystems and Urban Habitats	98
Margarita V. Alario
Citizen Monitoring and Restoration: Volunteers and Community Involvement in Wilderness Stewardship	101
Laurie Yung
Section 3—Values to Local and Distant Society of Wilderness Protection	107
Balancing Conservation Management and Tourism Development With Wilderness Stewardship in the Kruger National Park, South Africa	109
F. J. (Freek) Venter
Wild Mountains, Wild Rivers: Keeping the Sacred Origins	112
Linda Moon Stumpff
Economic Value of Ecosystem Conservation in Japan: Reduction of Starting Point Bias by Bid Effect Function	116
Mitsuyasu Yabe
Wilderness Values: Perspectives From Non-Economic Social Science	123
Daniel R. Williams and Alan E. Watson
Between Wilderness and the Middle Landscape: A Rocky Road	134
Lisi Krall

Wilderness Discount on Livestock Compensation Costs for Imperiled Gray Wolf Canis lupus	141
J. Christopher Haney, Timm Kroeger, Frank Casey, Alysa Quarforth, Gina Schrader, and Suzanne Asha Stone
Arctic and Wilderness Travel—Hosts and Guests: The Territory of Nunavut, Canada	152
Wilfred E. Richard
Managing Recreational Experiences in Arctic National Parks: A Process for Identifying Indicators	162
Stephen F. McCool, Paul R. Lachapelle, Heather Gosselin, Frances Gertsch, and Vicki Sahanatien
Advocating for Antarctic Wilderness: Short-term Visits and Human Values	170
Patrick T. Maher
Studying Boat-Based Bear Viewing: Methodological Challenges and Solutions	178
Sarah Elmeligi
Tourism in Rural Alaska	185
Katrina Church-Chmielowski
Special Offer—7 Days Fly and Drive Antarctica: The Role of Wilderness Protection in Deciding Whether (Semi) Permanent Tourist Facilities in Antarctica Should be Prohibited	190
Kees Bastmeijer
Section 4—Establishing Priorities and Developing Policies for Wilderness Protection	197
Land Claims as a Mechanism for Wilderness Protection in the Canadian Arctic	199
Vicki Sahanatien
Prospects for Natural World Heritage Sites in the Northwest Pacific Region	204
Jim Thorsell
Wilderness and the Paradox of Individual Freedom	205
Randy J. Tanner
NatureLinks: Protected Areas, Wilderness, and Landscape Connectivity in South Australia, Australia	212
Adrian Stokes and Greg Leaman
Conservation Planning in a Tropical Wilderness: Opportunities and Threats in the Guianan Ecoregion Complex	218
Jan Schipper, Gary Clarke, and Tom Allnutt
A Proposal for a Pamir International Peace Park	227
George B. Schaller
Action Toward Wilderness Protection in Australia	232
Keith Muir
Tanzania Wilderness Areas	239
M. G. G. Mtahiko
Transboundary Protected Area Proposals Along the Southern Andes of Chile and Argentina: Status of Current Efforts	244
Peter Keller
Some Biodiversity Points and Suggestions for the Myanmar Protected Area System	249
Daniel H. Henning
Transboundary Natural Area Protection: Broadening the Definition of National Security	254
Haven B. Cook
Challenges of Nature Conservation in Postsocialist Bulgaria: A View From the Rhodope Mountains	258
Barbara A. Cellarius
Rewilding in England and Wales: A Review of Recent Developments, Issues, and Concerns	267
Steve Carver
Designating Wilderness Areas: A Framework for Examining Lessons From the States	273
Gary Bryner
Identifying Core Habitat and Connectivity for Focal Species in the Interior Cedar-Hemlock Forest of North America to Complete a Conservation Area Design	281
Lance Craighead and Baden Cross
Section 5—Wilderness Stewardship Challenges in a Changing World	297
Developing Additional Capacity for Wilderness Management: An International Exchange Program Between South Africa and United States Wilderness Rangers	299
Pierre van den Berg and Ralph Swain
Managing Consumptive and Nonconsumptive Use in the United States Largest Wilderness	302
Vicki Snitzler and Barbara Cellarius
Expansion of the Wilderness Values Scale With Three Sub-Scales: Personal Maintenance, Expression and Learning, and Societal Maintenance	308
Rudy M. Schuster, Ken Cordell, and Gary T. Green

Commander Islands as the Significant Point for Monitoring Some Dangerous Changes in the Beringia Ecosystem	314
Vladimir Sevostianov
Use of Stock to Maintain and Construct Trails in the Eastern United States	316
Eric Sandeno
Identifying Threats, Values, and Attributes in Brazilian Wilderness Areas	319
Teresa Cristina Magro, Alan Watson, and Paula Bernasconi
A Look Inside the Dynamics of Trust: A Guide for Managers	323
Adam Liljeblad, Alan E. Watson, and William T. Borrie
Wilderness Stewardship Challenges in the uKhahlamba Drakensberg Park World Heritage Site	326
Sonja Krüger
Inter-Observer Agreement of a Multi-Parameter Campsite Monitoring Program on the Dixie National Forest, Utah	331
Nicholas J. Glidden and Martha E. Lee
Protecting the Protectors of Wilderness	339
Juan Carlos Gambarotta
Using the Minimum Requirement Concept to Manage Research in the Yosemite Wilderness	349
Mark Fincher
Measurement of Water Quality of High-Altitude Wilderness Streams: Cloud Peak Wilderness, Bighorn National Forest, Wyoming	355
Karen Ferguson
Shrinking Wild Lands: Assessing Human Intrusion in the Highlands of Scotland, 1870 to 2004, Using Geographical Information Systems	357
Steve Carver and Mark Wrightham
Wilderness Recreation Participation: Projections for the Next Half Century	367
J. M. Bowker, D. Murphy, H. K. Cordell, D. B. K. English, J. C. Bergstrom, C. M. Starbuck, C. J. Betz, G. T. Green, and P. Reed
Visitors' Experience and Lack of Knowledge of Minimum Impact Techniques in the Highlands of Brazil's Itatiaia National Park	374
Maria Isabel Amando de Barros and Teresa Cristina Magro
Tracking Progress: Applying the Forest Service 10 Year Wilderness Stewardship Challenge as a Model of Performance Management	380
Liese C. Dean
Section 6—Encouraging Stewardship Through Education	385
Wilderness Education: The Ultimate Commitment to Quality Wilderness Stewardship	387
Gregory F. Hansen and Tom Carlson
Nature is the Home of Culture—Friluftsliv is a Way Home	393
Nils Faarlund, Boerge Dahle, and Aage Jensen
Restoring Youth: Restoring Relationships to Wildlife and Wild Places	397
Linda Moon Stumpff
Paddling the Big Sky: Reflections on Place-Based Education and Experience	402
Phil Mullins and Patrick T. Maher
Comparing the Wilderness Message of U.S. Land Management Agencies	411
C. Griffin, S. Januchowski, J. Hooker, E. Isely, E. Daniels, C. Lucas, R. Feuerstein, and M. Bosma
Outdoor Programs and Environmental Beliefs: Investigating the Stability of Outcomes and Levels of Salience	416
Alan Ewert, Alison Voight, David Calvin, and Aya Hayashi
Historic Voyage as a Catalyst for Inspiring Change	422
Ann Melinda Bell
Section 7—Place and Spirit: Commitment to Wilderness	429
Spiritual Revelation in Wilderness Under Down-Under	431
Peter Ashley
Crossing The Divide	438
Florence Rose Shepard
The “Wilderness Knot”	441
Haydn G. Washington
White Lions: Reintroduction to Their Natural and Spiritual Homelands	447
Linda Tucker

Is This a One-night Stand or the Start of Something Meaningful? Developing Relationships to Place in National Park Backcountry	451
Jeffrey J. Brooks, George N. Wallace, and Daniel R. Williams
Defining Values in Place: A Practical Application for Visitor Management in Protected Areas	460
Gordon Cessford, and Mike Edginton
Relationships to Place in Wildland Resources Management: Developing an Effective Research Approach	470
Neal Christensen, Alan Watson, and James Burchfield
Psychophysiological Responses and Restorative Values of Wilderness Environments	479
Chun-Yen Chang, Ping-Kun Chen, William E. Hammitt, and Lisa Machnik
 Section 8—Protecting Ecological Integrity of Wilderness	 485
Toda Relationship With Nature as an Indication of Ecosystem Health	487
Tarun Chhabra
Living in Interesting Times: Selected Implications of Landscape Ecology for Conservation Science	496
John Shultis
Managing for Ecological Integrity in Protected Wildlands: Key Management Challenges and Research Priorities in British Columbia	501
Pamela A. Wright
Ecological Restoration of Degraded Wilderness Ecosystems: Removing Exotic Plants and Introducing Prescribed Fire to Restore Natural Diversity in Two National Park Wilderness Areas	506
Gary Vequist
Wilderness and Wild Lands in the Northern Appalachian Region of North America: An Ecological Perspective	510
Stephen C. Trombulak
Protecting Biodiversity in situ in the Amazonian Region of Brazil	515
Claudia Sellier
Some Practical Considerations in Restoration of Wilderness Geodiversity: Insights From Lake Pedder, Tasmania	519
Kevin Kiernan
Wilderness Restoration: Bureau of Land Management and the Student Conservation Association in the California Desert District	526
J. Dan Abbe
 Section 9—Wilderness, Water, and Wisdom	 531
Salmon Theology: Return to Traditional Reasoning	533
Joseph Clair
Wilderness, Water, and Quality of Life in the Bitterroot Valley	537
Kari Gunderson and Clint Cook
Are Wildland Watersheds Safest and Best?	545
Lawrence S. Hamilton
Field Testing Existence Values for Riparian Ecosystems	550
John W. Duffield, Chris J. Neher, David A. Patterson, and Patricia A. Champ
Three Rivers: Protecting the Yukon’s Great Boreal Wilderness	558
Juri Peepre
Use of Clostridium perfringens as a Fecal Indicator to Detect Intertidal Disposal at Backcountry Marine Campsites in Prince William Sound, Alaska	565
Gino Graziano, Paul Twardock, Rusty Myers, Roman Dial, and David Scheel
How the National Marine Sanctuaries Act Diverged from the Wilderness Act Model and Lost Its Way in the Land of Multiple Use	573
William J. Chandler and Hannah Gillelan
Leatherback Sea Turtle Stewardship to Attain Local, Regional, and Global Marine Conservation and Management	579
Randall Arauz and Todd Steiner	